

A Collection of Swashbuckling Insults

INSULTS

I believe I am about to become the author of a tragedy!

I hear you have committed every crime that does not require courage!

You used to be arrogant and obnoxious. Now you are just the opposite. You are obnoxious and arrogant.

Let's play horse. I'll be the front end and you be yourself.

You must be the arithmetic man—you add trouble, subtract pleasure, divide attention, and multiply ignorance.

You are not as bad as people say—you are worse!

When you get to the men's room, you will see a sign that says, "Gentlemen." Pay no heed to it. Go right on in.

You've never been outspoken; no one has ever been able to.

I don't consider you a vulture. I consider you something a vulture would eat.

I admire you because I've never had the courage it takes to be a liar, a thief, and a cheat.

You never strike out blindly; you flail in the light.

People can't say that you have absolutely nothing! After all, you have inferiority!

You must have a low opinion of people if you think they're your equals.

You are not the worst person in the world, but until one worse comes along, you'll do.

If I told you that I have a piece of dirt in my eye, would you move?

If you were a swine, you would be what you are now!

You are the answer to my prayer!! I prayed to find out if things could get worse!!

You are so boring that you can't even entertain a doubt.

At least you are not obnoxious like so many other people—you are obnoxious in a different and worse way!

You have a lot of well-wishers. They would all like to throw you down one.

Is your name Maple Syrup? It should be, you sap.

Someone said that you are not fit to sleep with pigs. I stuck up for the pigs.

THREATS

You have nothing to fear from my base instincts; it's my finer ones that tell me to kill you.

I think you should live for the moment. But after that, I doubt I'll think so.

I believe in respect for the dead; in fact, I could only respect you if you WERE dead.

Would you like to replace my business partner who died this morning? I'll arrange it with the undertaker.

You are pretty as a picture and we'd love to hang you.

STUPIDITY

If you ever tax your brain, don't charge more than a silver penny.

For two pennies, I'd give you a piece of my mind—and all of yours.

After hearing you talk, I now know that the dead do contact us.

Look, don't go to a mind reader; go to a palmist; I know you've got a palm.

You say that you are always bright and early. Well, OK!! We know you are early.

A half-wit gave you a piece of his mind, and you held on to it.

They say no woman ever made a fool out of you. So who did?

This is no battle of wits between you and me. I never pick on an unarmed man.

I don't think you are a fool. But then, what's my own humble opinion against thousands of others?

People say that you are the perfect idiot. I say that you are not perfect, but you are doing alright.

You are as strong as an ox and almost as intelligent.

I hear you changed your mind! What did you do with the diaper?

HATING

I've had many cases of love that were just infatuation, but this hate I feel for you is the real thing.

You're the best at all you do—and all you do is make people hate you.

The thing that terrifies me the most is that someone might hate me as much as I loathe you.

I would like the pleasure of your company, but it only gives me displeasure.

You are the kind of person who, when one first meets you, one doesn't like you. But when one gets to know you better, one hates you.

PARENTS

I hear that when your mother first saw you, she decided to leave you on the front steps of a constable station while she turned herself in.

Yours was an unnatural birth; you came from a human being.

You were the answer to a prayer. Your parents prayed that the world would be made to suffer and here you came along.

I hear you were born on a farm. Any more in the litter?

I heard that you were born, your father threw rocks at the stork.

All that you are you owe to your parents. Why don't you send them a penny and square the account?

UGLINESS

...and the King procured a baboon for the Royal Menagerie. Ah, Sir Henry, I was just thinking of you!

I feel sorry for you because you are so homely, but I feel even sorer for other people because they have to look at you.

Yours is a prima facie case of ugliness. And your body is ugly, too.

Moonlight becomes you—total darkness even more!

I bet your best weapon against pirates and scoundrels is your face.

You should have been born in the Dark Ages; you look terrible in the light.

I hear you are very kind to animals, so please give that face back to the gorilla

They say that travel broadens oneself. You must have been around the world.

People clap when they see you—their hands over their eyes or ears.

ROMANCE

We know that romance brings out the beast in you—the jackass.

We hear you are a lady killer. They take one look at you and die of fright!!

Why, Teresa! How pleasant to be seeing you again. And you came with a man, how novel of you!

TALKING

I wish my horse had the speed of your tongue and with such endurance.

I don't mind that you are talking so long as you don't mind that I'm not listening.

Keep talking. I always yawn when I'm interested.

I'm busy now. Can I ignore you some other time?

Whatever is eating you—must be suffering horribly.

I'll never forget the first time we met—although, I'll keep trying.

I've had a wonderful evening and this wasn't it.

Your occasional flashes of silence made this conversation perfectly delightful.

Your conversation is like the waves of the sea. It makes me sick!

They say opposites attract. I hope you meet someone who is good-looking, intelligent, and cultured.

The next time you shave, could you stand a little closer to the razor?

I hear you are an officer. Your rank is—just plain rank!

You have an inferiority complex—and it's fully justified.

Of course, I wouldn't know anything about the payscale of our enemies.

Excellent shot! I can't think of a single child who could have done better!

Truly a fine horse. She looks as fast as the wind. He must serve you well to keep you so far from the heat of battle.

MISCELLANEOUS

Do you have to leave so soon? I was about to poison the tea.

When you get run over by a horse and cart, it shouldn't be listed under accidents.

I hear the only place you're ever invited is outside.

You should toss out more of your funny remarks; that's all they're good for.

I think of you when I am lonely. Then I am content to be alone.

When you die, I'd like to go to your funeral, but I'll probably have to go to work that day. I believe in business before pleasure.

Any friend of yours—is a friend of yours.

You're not yourself today. I noticed the improvement immediately.

I thought of you all day today when I was at the zoo.